Jasen R Dobson

Jasen R Dobson is a lifelong resident of North East Arkansas. He is a U.S. Army Veteran who's first duty station was in Memphis Tn. He has served in Iraq and spent time in the UK, Guatemala, and various other countries around the world. He retired from the Arkansas National Guard as a Sergeant First Class in the role of Platoon Sergeant for the Battalion Mortar Section. Jasen lives in North East Arkansas with his wife of 20+ years and their 5 children. A lifelong fan of Stephen King, R.A. Salvatore, and other authors too numerous to mention, Jasen was finally persuaded to begin writing and share his stories with the reading community. Jasen did so with his first offering, Dark Gate. The first book's unexpected success and growing following helped to cement the plans for book two, Angel Fire, as well as the epic series, Shayde. In his spare time Jasen enjoys running, riding bikes, Martial Arts (he is a black belt in Tae Kwon Do and has training in BJJ and Boxing), and playing guitar. His greatest thrill, and according to him his greatest achievement, is his family.
