

P rofessor Allen Edward Hill was born in Birmingham, Alabama, however, he spent much of his young adult life in Washington, DC with his paternal grandmother Maxine an educator with 50 years of experience at DC public schools. Allen received his bachelor's degree with honors from Alabama State University. Allen is also an alumnus of University of Memphis Graduate School of Education, Birmingham School of Law, and Miles College of Law. Allen is a professionally licensed history educator in Tennessee, Mississippi, Louisiana, and Alabama. Allen is also admitted to The Tennessee Supreme Court to practice Civil and Divorce mediation. Allen is also a member of The Memphis Bar Association mediation section. Allen currently teaches 8th grade history with Memphis Shelby County Schools, and he serves as adjunct professor of education at Lemoyne-Owen College of Education. Allen practices divorce, family, and civil mediation in his spare time. Allen is paternally related to the late Dr. Chancellor Williams.

T

he Comprehensive U.S. History WORKBOOK is an at home history supplement for the African American family, women, and minorities. This workbook is directly keyed to Tennessee State history standards, and it uses those standards to tell U.S. history from the perspective of African Americans, Native Americans, Women, and Minorities. The intention of The Comprehensive U.S. History WORKBOOK is to help African Americans, Women, Native Americans, and minorities see themselves in the fabric of The American Journey from the years 1492-1776.

