Pearl Bradley is a native Memphian with a lifetime of experience in the Memphis education system. Her formative years were spent as a student in Memphis public schools, then she received her B.A. at Grambling State, and a Master of Education at the University of Memphis. In her career, she has served as a guidance counselor for elementary school children in the Memphis-Shelby County system for over 20 years. In her spare time, she volunteers as a grief group facilitator at Grief Share. Pearl is passionate about providing therapy and wellness services to the people in her community.

Someone I Love Got Shot

Someone I Love Got Shot is a book that addresses the difficult topic of dealing with the pain of a loved one being a victim of gun violence. These experiences have left many unanswered questions and in some instances the inability to function. Many types of behaviors are exhibited when people face situations that they do not understand. As a result, there is a fear of other family members or themselves becoming a victim of gun violence. This story was written to allow children to be able to talk openly about their feelings to counselors and begin the healing process. However, this book can be used with all age groups who have experienced loss through gun violence.
