

Derek Crowder is a self published writer born and raised in Memphis. At a young age he had a talent for art and music. After many years of hate towards reading and writing in school, he broke through that mental barrier. He found his enjoyment in reading and that enjoyment led to that artistic desire to make his own. Today he is currently working on his third entry.

Ben is the star runner at his school and the big ace is coming up. However, something is lurking in the dark and a mysterious girl shows up. Are they connected?

On a cold night in a small cemetery, spirits rise up and gather to share tales of their final days.