

K.P. Williams

K.P. is an experienced writer and social media coordinator. She holds a Master of Science in Professional Writing from New York University, a Bachelor of Science in Journalism from Tennessee State University, and a certification in Grant Writing from Cleveland State University.

Through her novel Commencement and her poetry book Black Girls are Wildflowers, she captures the multifaceted experiences of Black American women. In her free time, she enjoys attending concerts and traveling.

“

“Freeing yourself was one thing; claiming ownership of that freed self was another”

Toni Morrison

